

Short Biography of Hannes Federrath

From 1989-1994 Hannes Federrath studied computer science and earned a Ph. D. degree from Dresden University of Technology in 1998. He worked as a researcher in the group on Information and coding theory at Dresden University of Technology from 1994-1999. Between September 1999 and August 2000 he was a guest researcher at the International Computer Science Institute. Between September 2000 and August 2001 he was a guest professor, and until March 2003 he served as the head of the working group on IT-Security at Freie University Berlin, Department of Computer Science in Germany. Since April 2003 he is a full professor at University Regensburg.

